Branded office supplies. Products your office will love.

A new year, a new decade and with Office VIBES® you can now have a clear vision at work in 2020. The branded manufacturers we work with have really stepped up their game to offer you a wider choice, brighter colours, smarter innovations and most importantly an extensive collection of environmentally friendly products. The premium quality goes without saying but we know how important it is to you that you can choose products with proven eco credentials so your workplace can go green effortlessly. The environmentally friendly products featured in this issue of Office VIBES® are clearly marked so you can make a responsible choice.

We also take a light-hearted look at some far-fetched predictions made about advancements that would supposedly change our lives in 2020 and naughty findings on the extent of office romances in celebration of Valentines Day. We are pleased to announce the launch of Office VIBES® TV and Instagram platforms so you can always keep up-to-date with our latest favourite products and promotions.

Love office products, love Office VIBES®!

PREDICTING THE FUTURE...

We live history without even realising it. Instagram was launched, Apple released the iPad and Google introduced the driverless car in 2010, it doesn't seem all that long ago. It was an era when you could be forgiven for thinking birds tweeted and wireless was a name for a radio but these innovations changed our lives for the better.

Many brilliant (and as it turned out not so brilliant) minds made bold statements when predicting what the world would look in 2020 and so we thought we would share our favourites with you. Even Mystic Meg should be nervous about predicting too far in the future after reading these!

WE'LL HAVE APE CHAUFFEURS

In 1994, the RAND Corporation, a global think tank that's contributed to the space program and the development of the internet, said they expected us to have animal employees by the year 2020.

"The RAND panel mentioned that by the year 2020 it may be possible to breed intelligent species of animals, such as apes, that will be capable of performing manual labor," Glenn T. Seaborg wrote of the corporation's prediction in his book Scientist Speaks Out. "During the 21st century, those houses that don't have a robot in the broom closet could have a live-in ape to do the cleaning and gardening chores. Also, the use of well-trained apes as family chauffeurs might decrease the number of automobile accidents."

Bet they feel like right baboons now!

THERE WILL BE NO NEED FOR FUTURISTS TO PREDICT THE FUTURE

So many futurists made their predictions on how 2020 will go in the 20th century. But Dave Evans, the chief futurist for Cisco Visual Networking, actually predicted that he'd be out of a job by 2020 because by then, everyone would be able to predict the future themselves.

"By 2020, predicting the future will be commonplace for the average person," he told Mashable. "We are amassing unprecedented amounts of data... New image and video analysis algorithms and tools will unlock this rich source of data, creating unprecedented insight. Cloud-based tools will allow anyone to mine this data and perform what-if analysis, even using it to predict the future."

Back to the future on this one!

FLYING HOUSES

Inventor, science writer, and futurist Arthur C. Clarke—who co-wrote the screenplay for 2001: A Space Odyssey—believed that the boring houses of 1966 would be radically different by the time we reached the 21st century, according to Inverse. Evidently, the houses of the future would have nothing keeping them on the ground and they would be able to move to anywhere on earth on a whim.

"Whole communities may migrate south in the winter, or move to new lands whenever they feel the need for a change of scenery," Clarke promised.

That was a sky high dream!

TELEPATHY AND TELEPORTATION

Michael J. O'Farrell, founder of The Mobile Institute, has been an expert in the technology industry since 1985. But even the experts can make mistakes. In the book Shift 2020, O'Farrell predicted that 2020 would be the dawn of the "nanomobility era."

"In the pending nanomobility era, I predict telepathy and teleportation will become possible by the year 2020—with both commonplace by 2040," he said.

Beam me up Scotty!

EATING WITH NO LONG BE NECESSARY

This prediction comes from just 2005 and it was made by futurist and computer scientist Ray Kurzweil. He wrote in his book The Singularity Is Near: When Humans Transcend Biology that by the 2020s, there will be "nanobots" capable of entering the bloodstream to "feed" cells and extract waste. As a result, they'll render the mode of food consumption as we know it obsolete.

This one is hard to swallow!

When it matters.

IT'S TIME TO DRAW A LINE IN THE SAND

NEW plastic-free packaging.

Part of our journey to becoming more sustainable.

WHY IT MATTERS

More than 8 billion tonnes of plastic have been produced since the 1950's.

On this trajectory, by 2050 there will be more plastic in the ocean than fish.

Green all over. Even the packaging!

Thanks to continuous research and development, the edding® EcoLine Permanent Markers are made from 83% post-consumer plastic and 90% recycled material in total.

The EcoLine range successfully uses post-consumer recycled material in their products which means that empty yoghurt pots, old watering cans and discarded plastic buckets can be turned into new raw materials for use in the products they make.

Made from 90% recycled material!

ECOLINE 21 AND 22 PERMANENT MARKERS

Quick-drying, low-odour and lightfast edding® EcoLine Permanent Markers are made from 90% recycled materials.

SORRY I'M IN A MEETING...

Do you feel like you spend your life in meetings? Recent research shows that Britain is in the midst of a meeting epidemic:

- The average worker spends 213 hours a year, or 26 working days, in a meeting
- Nearly one million people spend more than half their working week in meetings
- At least a third of the meeting time is entirely wasted, the biggest time waster is waiting for others to arrive

At least you can find a great selection of notebooks and pens in Office VIBES® so you can doodle whilst you wait!

LOVE IS IN THE AIR!

Roses are red, violets are blue and we won't be giving you a lecture on whether or not you should be having an office romance! Most businesses frown upon dating colleagues but it is a fact of life that working 40 hours a week in close proximity with coworkers can ignite passion and lead to 'after hours activity'. When we researched office romances, we blushed at the extent of quite how much funny business goes on - enjoy these naughty findings!

58%

of employees have engaged in a romantic relationship with a colleague. Even more surprising is that 72% of over 50 years old have been romantically involved with a coworker."

33%

of workers admit they have exchanged flirtatious emails with a colleague despite being in a relationship."

50%

of workers have a secret crush on a colleague."

19%

of employees admitted to stepping out on their partner with a colleague at work, although 44% of employees said they knew colleagues who had affairs at work or on business trips."

18%

of employees reported having a random hookup with a coworker."

72%

would participate in an office romance again if given the chance."

64%

who had participated in an office romance kept it secret and only 16% were comfortable enough to tell everyone, including their superiors, about their relationship."

71%

of workers wouldn't mind if their colleagues were having an affair in the office."

25%

of workplace relationships eventually lead to marriage."
